

Have you been diagnosed with Lynch syndrome?

We want to hear from you!

Researchers from the University of Chicago, University of Michigan and Columbia University are studying how people with Lynch syndrome feel about different colon cancer screening options

Your input will help improve future screening strategies and ensure they reflect patient preferences

Who Can Participate?

- Adults over 18 years of age
- Pathogenic or likely pathogenic variant (or “mutation”) in one of the Lynch syndrome genes (MLH1, MSH2, EPCAM, MSH6 or PMS2)
- Ability to complete an English-language online survey

What To Expect?

- A 10-to-15 minute online survey
- Review and compare different screening test options
- Share what matters most to you (accuracy, frequency, risks, etc.)
- The survey is completely anonymous
